

From Elevator Family On Ice:

Another booth told all about vanlife, the joys of living simply in a van. The Wilsons knew the young man who worked in the booth.

“Sam!” Walter and Winona said.

“Nature Boy!” said Whitney and Winslow.

“Mr. and Mrs. Wilson!” said the man. “Whitney and Winslow! How good to see you again.”

The Wilsons met Sam when they stayed in the fire lookout tower in northern Minnesota. At the time he was living off the land.

“But I’m no longer Nature Boy,” Sam said. “Now I’m just Sam Saarinen. I bought a van, fixed it up, and now I’m driving around the country enjoying life in a van.”

Winslow, admired the photos in the booth. “Vanlife looks wonderful,” he said. “Seeing new sights and meeting new people every day.”
